

After looking at your website and reading some of your testimonial (even from some familiar people) I thought you might be able to use one from who appreciates your service.

As wedding photographers ourselves, experiencing firsthand the many pitfalls and unplanned surprises that can occur at a wedding, we can fully appreciate the many benefits of having a good wedding coordinator on hand to help. It wasn't until my own daughter got married, however, that I saw it's real value from the other side. "The other side" for me was experiencing the full impact of getting caught up in the emotion of the day and seeing how that affects your memory and your mind. Having Brigid there to take that worry off my hands was worth its weight in gold. As was all of her other nice little surprises that I never knew she did. Before Lisa's wedding I understood the practical value of Brigid's services. Now I understand why.
